

Kevin Fox

Originally from Canada and now based in the UK, Kevin Fox is known internationally as a performer, choral director, workshop leader, and arranger. Kevin toured the globe with the Grammy-winning group The Swingles for 12 years, and was a founding member of the Toronto vocal band Cadence. These days he records with London Voices on various film soundtracks (including Guardians of the Galaxy 3, Dune 2, The Little Mermaid) and appears as a guest singer/vocal percussionist with various ensembles including New York Voices. Kevin is the Musical Director of the Israeli pop choir Vocalocity (2013-), and served as Artistic Director of SING! The Toronto Vocal Arts Festival (2022-2023) and Musical Director of the British TV show Sing: Ultimate A Cappella (2017). He also directs two lovely London-based community choirs. As a teacher, workshop leader and adjudicator, Kevin has worked at various institutions and international vocal festivals including the Guildhall School of Music and Drama (London), Europa Cantat (Estonia), Black Forest Voices (Germany), Vocalmente (Italy), Vocal Asia (Japan), and the Rocky Mountain Festival (Canada). He is still in demand as an arranger for vocal groups worldwide, and occasionally writes original choral music as well. Kevin's greatest passion is to help singers and ensembles to unlock their creative music-making potential.